No 510

Yesterday arrived a Mail from Holland.

THE Court of Portugal has received Advice from Africa, of a Skirmish that there has been between their Garrison at Mazagam, and the Moors. The Portuguese Cavalry marching out to a Place called Rochimba, to cut Wood and Forage, were attacked by a Detachment of Moorish Horse, who finding that the Portuguese immediately put themselves in a Posture to give them Reception, wheel'd about betwixt them and the Town, in order to cut off their Retreat; when the Governor perceiving what they aimed at, detach'd a Foot to take Possession of the neighbouring Moorish Cavalry, which was no sooner observed by the Portuguese Cavalry, but they fell upon the Moors, tho' inferior in Number, with such Bravery, that after the Space of an Hour and half, they put them to flight, with considerable Loss.

They have Advice at Cadiz from Buenos Ayres, that the Spanish Flotilla sailed from Vera Cruz in the Month of January last, and that the Gallies only waited for a Wind to do the same. The Troops from Italy, all arrived at Barcelona and Alicant, after having with a violent Storm in their Passage.

The King of Spain has declared Don Philip, his Son, who is but 16 Years old, High Admiral of Spanish Monarchy, and Colonel of the two Regiments of Spanish and Walloon Guards.

In the 16th ult. O. S. the Intendant at Catalonia, Order from the Court of Spain, dismissed all the Imports hired at Barcelona for the King of Spain's Service, so that the great Expedition so long expected, is quite at an End for the present.

There are Letters from Warsaw, by way of which, which say, they have Advice, that the King of the Tartars is on the March with 100,000 Men, and a great Body of Turkish Horse, upon an Expedition against the Provinces of Russia.

They write from Constantinople, that upon the Communication of the Count de Koningsegg's Letter to the Porte, such of the Ministers of the Divan, as were for a Peace, remonstrated how dangerous it was to carry on a War, in which the Emperor, and the Republick of Venice, will join with the Turks; and that thereupon, the Porte took a Resolution to nominate three Plenipotentiaries to treat of Peace. If this be not set about effectually, it appears, by a List sent from Vienna to the Court of France, that the Emperor will employ above 80,000 Men against the Turks next Campaign, of which 20,000 are already in Hungary.

The Court of Vienna has dispatch'd Expresses to all foreign Courts, to notify the Delivery of the Archduchess Mary Theresa, Archduchess of Lorain, on the 25th of January last O. S. was safely brought to Bed of a Princess, which was baptised the Evening in her Anti-Chamber by the Pope's Nephew, in Presence of all the Imperial Family, by the Name of Mary Elizabeth-Amelia-Antonietta-Gabriella-Joanna-Agatha; her Sureties at present being the Emperor and Empress, and the Archduchess Amelia, and the Archduchess, Princess of the Austrian Netherlands, who was retained by the second Archduchess, the Daughter of the Imperial Majesties.

They write from Berlin, that a Bag of Money lately taken out of a Trunk in the King's Chamber at Potsdam, and great Search having been made to find out the Thief, but to no Purpose; the King has generously declar'd, that he would give 24,000 Rix-dollars to whatsoever Person had committed the Theft, but that if he stay'd beyond that Time and was apprehended, he should be severely punish'd: And a Person who has an Employment at Potsdam, has absented himself that very Day, 'tis supposed he committed the Theft.

Prince Leopold of Anhalt, Lieutenant General, and Son to the Prince of Anhalt Dessau, is shortly to marry a Princess of Anhalt Cothen, who is said to be rich: And another Treaty is on foot between the Duke of Dohna, Major of a Regiment, and the Princess of Holstein, only Daughter of the Duke of Holstein, Lieutenant General and Governor of Koningsberg.

According to Advices from Dantzick, 'tis impossible to express the Distress the neighbouring Countries have suffered from the Inundations, occasioned by the overflowing of Rivers, and the breaking down of several Dykes, insomuch, that the Country People, who have been thereby forced to leave their Habitations under Water, come every Day to the Gates of that City to beg Charity; and the Magistrates have been so good, as not only to appoint them Lodgings, but to order a Collection for their Relief.

On the 2d Instant, O. S. the Duke d'Arenberg was declared at Brussels, Generalissimo of the Emperor's Troops in the Austrian Netherlands, by the Count d'Harrach, the Archduchess's first Minister, who at the same time made an eloquent Harangue upon the Antiquity and Splendor of the illustrious Family of Arenberg. 'Tis remark'd, that since the Reign of Philip II. King of Spain, none of the Nobility of the Netherlands, have had the Post of Generalissimo of the Forces.

The following Extract of a Letter from Rome, dated the first of January last, is inserted for the Amusement of such of our Readers as are Lovers of Antiquity.

Signior Furetti, the Pope's Domestick Prelate, having obtain'd Leave to dig in a Vineyard of his own near Tivoli, among the Ruins of the Emperor Adrian's Palace, mention'd by the Historian Spartianus, he set 17 Men at Work, who had scarce began to turn up the Surface of the Earth, but they came to a couple of subterraneous Vaults; the Pavement of which was of Mosaic Marble. There were several Niches in the Walls, and in two of those Niches were a couple of Statues of a sort of Marble, call'd here Pietra di Paragon, because 'tis a kind of Touch-stone. They are two Centaurs, each 'em 4 Roman Feet in Height: The one with a Beard, and cover'd with the Skin of a Lyon, and the other without a Beard, and with the Skin of a Tyger. They had both of 'em their Arms folded behind them, and their Hands fastened by the Tails of the Skins which hung over their Shoulders. On one Side of each of the Pedestals, the Names of the Sculptors were engrav'd in Greek Characters, viz. ΑΡΙΣΤΕΙΑΣ ΚΑΙ ΠΑΠΙΑ, Aristias and Papia, and on the Top of each of those Statues this Greek Word ΑΠΟΔΙΣΤΕΙΣ, Apodisteis. One of these Statues received a little Damage by the Fall of part of the Roof; but all the Pieces of it being found again, they are about repairing it.

I have just now taken a View of them. They are two of the finest Pieces of Sculpture not only in Rome, but in all Europe. They are Art in its Perfection, representing Nature in Perfection. The Names of these Sculptors are not mention'd in History; but they as well deserve to be transmitted to Posterity as Phidias and Protagoras. 'Tis suppos'd that Aristias carv'd the Figure of the Man, and Papia that of the Horse; for 'tis not conceivable how one Hand could execute both those Parts to so great a degree of Perfection.

Furetti has but a small Portion of the Ground belonging to that Palace of the Emperor Adrian, almost all the rest belonging to the Jesuits, who no sooner heard of Furetti's Success, but they began also to dig, and have already dug up the intire Canopus mention'd by the above-mentioned Historian Spartianus. It consists of 10 Statues of the same sort of Marble as the others, which represent the ancient Egyptian Deities, viz. Isis, Osiris, &c. and Six of 'em are just carry'd to the Cabinet of the Roman College.

York, Feb. 7. On Thursday last, the Anniversary for swearing the new Lord Mayor of this City into his Office, Sir John Lister Kaye, Bart. went in Procession, preceded by the Companies Banners, &c. attended by the rest of the Magistracy, and the whole Body of the Commons, to the usual Places. After which, a most elegant Entertainment was served up in the great Room of the City's House; at which were present the venerable the Dean of York, most of the Clergy and Gentry in Town, and in the Neighbourhood of this City; and all was done with the greatest Splendor and Magnificence.

Next Week the Lord Mayor sets out for London, in order to serve this City in Parliament.

Samuel Clarke, Esq; our late Lord Mayor, we hear, will be constituted his Lordship's Deputy in his Absence.

WHEREAS some Persons have taken a Room in the Hay-market St. James's in which Place (as I am well inform'd) they have presumed to set up a publick Gaming Table under my Name.

I therefore think myself obliged in this publick Manner to declare, that I do not so much as know the Persons of those Fellows who have thus been guilty of using my Name in so scandalous a Manner.

And whereas they pretend to shelter themselves under the Pretence of a Protection given them by a Woman, who has sometimes assumed my Title, which Woman (an Irish Papist) was above 40 Years the Wife of a superannuated Officer of the Army, who died within these two Years; the Woman is, as I am inform'd, Eighty Years of Age, well known to many who have suffer'd by her Tricks and Pretences about this Town, &c.

I also hereby declare, that I never was married to any Woman but my now Wife, who hath been such these Twenty-three Years, and with whom I have always lived publicly, as I now do.

I also declare, that my Wife never did keep any Assembly for Play, in any Shape whatsoever.

Given under my Hand this 8th Day of February 1736.

From my House Piazza,
Covent Garden.

MORDINGTON.
